our libestyle

We met seven years ago playing women's ice hockey in the same league, and we've been a team ever since, on and off the ice. We're both energetic, kind, and love learning and trying new things. Our days are full of simple joys: traveling when we can, exploring new places, and spending time with the people we love.

Lisa works as a product manager and enjoys snowboarding, singing in a local choir, and discovering charming small towns. Kelsey is a high school science teacher who loves rock climbing, cooking, and playing softball. On weekends, we might go on a road trip or just stay in with a cozy dinner and a movie.

We're lucky to have a close circle of family and friends who love us deeply and are excited to be part of a child's life. More than anything, we hope to be parents who fill a child's world with love, bedtime stories, backyard games, and the freedom to explore, play, and grow into whoever they're meant to be.

OUR HOME & NEIGHBORHOOD

We live in Austin, Texas, in a cozy four-bedroom home on a quiet street where kids ride bikes and neighbors wave hello. Just down the road is a community center with a pool, splash pad, and playground, plus a cheerful elementary school. We love exploring nearby parks and the charming downtown on weekends.

We're turning one room into a nursery with a beach and wave theme—peaceful, playful, and full of warmth. Our home is filled with love, music, and quiet joys like movie nights, homemade meals, and snuggles with our three sweet cats: Taylor, Gatsby, and Boo Boo. It's a calm, happy place where a child can grow up feeling safe, supported, and deeply loved.

OUR FAVORITE ADVENTURES

Some of our favorite memories have come from adventures we've shared, both big and small. One of our most special memories was getting married in a rainforest in Alaska, surrounded by waterfalls, tall trees, and close family. That week, we even saw moose, whales, and a bear! But adventure doesn't always mean going far. Some of our best days have been simple ones—picnics at the park, cheering each other on at local sports games, or dancing in the kitchen while making dinner. What excites us most now is sharing these moments with a child. Whether it's a walk in the neighborhood or seeing the ocean for the first time, we look forward to experiencing the world through their eyes and building a life filled with love, fun, and curiosity.

our bamily F friends

Family means everything to us. Kelsey grew up with her parents and younger brother, spending holidays surrounded by grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins. Every summer, her family visited extended relatives and went on fun outdoor adventures together. Lisa was raised with her parents and older brother and has lots of great memories from family trips, playing soccer, and doing Girl Scouts with her mom. Her extended family is big, loving, and full of cousins many of whom now have children of their own.

We're also lucky to have a close group of friends who feel like family. Many live nearby and are ready to cheer us on, lend a hand, and be part of a child's life from day one. Between our strong families, caring friends, and the stable, joyful home we've built together, we're excited to raise a child in a world filled with love, support, and people they can always count on.

our letter to you

We don't know exactly what you're feeling right now, but we want you to know we're thinking of you with deep respect and care. Whatever path you choose, we hope you feel supported and surrounded by people who want the very best for you and your baby.

If you choose us, your child will grow up wrapped in unconditional love in a safe, joyful home. We'll nurture their dreams, celebrate who they are, and make sure they always know their story, including how deeply you love them. We plan to talk openly about adoption from the start, with honesty, warmth, and pride.

We're a down-to-earth couple who loves traveling, spending time with friends and family, and making life fun and meaningful. Our home is warm, stable, and ready to grow—and we've got so much love to give. If something in our story speaks to you, we'd be honored to learn more about you and answer any questions. Thank you for considering us.
