my favorite adventures

Our family's love for adventure keeps us on the move! Frequent trips to the beach are a favorite for us, where the kids dive into building sandcastles and splashing in the waves. These trips bring a lot of joy and are a wonderful way for us to relax and connect with nature. Another highlight is Great Wolf Lodge. My kids can't get enough of it! Between the indoor water park, arcade games, and endless activities, it's always an exciting getaway.

Two years ago, we ventured to Disney World, where the magic was as real as the characters themselves. Watching the kids meet their favorite Disney characters and exploring each magical land was unforgettable, even if it left us a bit exhausted! Our next big adventure is Legoland, where I'm sure Zayn's love of Lego towers will be front and center.

Traveling to Ohio is a regular part of our routine as well, especially around the holidays. These family gatherings are cherished and full of joy, laughter, and plenty of good food. Each trip is another thread in the tapestry of our family memories, bonding us closer with every adventure.

my home & neighborhood

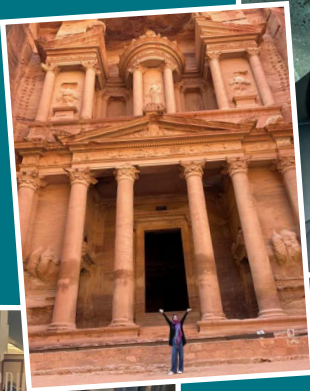

We live in Florida in a vibrant city known for its sunny weather, waterfront views, and family-friendly atmosphere. In our suburban neighborhood, life feels like a peaceful retreat yet is close to the action of downtown. Our home is nestled in a quiet cul-de-sac where kids often gather for soccer games, bike rides, and spontaneous play sessions, creating a warm, close-knit community. The backyard is a highlight, with a beautiful pool surrounded by lush landscaping, perfect for cooling off on hot days. Being less than a mile from school is a huge plus. The kids love walking with friends each morning, making their commute both fun and convenient. We're surrounded by friendly neighbors and enjoy the balance of bustling city energy with the calm of suburban life. It's truly the ideal setting for family living, combining the best of both worlds in this sunny paradise.

ADOPTION IN MY LIFE

Adopting Zayn was one of the most beautiful decisions of my life. Zayn came into my life with a spark that's only grown, bringing so much joy and purpose to our family. My journey to adopt him was full of emotions—anticipation, love, and the profound realization that we were meant for each other. Since then, our bond has grown immensely, and I'm deeply grateful to still be in contact with Zayn's birthmom, who remains an important part of his story.

Raising Zayn as a single mom hasn't always been easy, but I'm blessed with a strong support system of family, friends, and caregivers who've helped me balance it all. The experience has inspired me to consider adopting again. My heart feels open, knowing there's more room in our lives for another child, and I feel confident that adoption is a part of our family's path forward. This journey of love, resilience, and connection is one I'm eager to embrace again.

MY FAMILY & friends

Our family is full of love, laughter, and endless creativity. There's Zayn, my energetic six-year-old, who has a knack for building intricate Lego towers and seems to see the world as one big playground. His big sister, Rupa, is eleven and absolutely dazzling—she's not only stylish, with a talent for makeup and fashion, but also an amazing older sister who looks out for her little brother. Then there's me, Neha, their mom, balancing family life with my role as an active-duty military physician, which keeps us all adaptable and close knit.

Our household wouldn't be complete without our furry friends, Bella and Babs, who add a little more love (and fur!) to our lives. Just as important is our extended family. My children are surrounded by four dedicated grandparents and three wonderful cousins close in age to Zayn and Rupa, making every family gathering feel like a mini-reunion. They even have a one-year-old cousin who would make a perfect companion for any new little one we welcome into our family someday. With family always nearby, the bond between all of us is something truly special, creating a home filled with joy, support, and endless companionship.

DEAR

*expectant
mother*

Thank you for considering me as a potential adoptive parent for your precious child. I deeply respect the courage and love it takes to consider this decision, and I'd be honored to be part of your journey.

Adoption has been one of the greatest blessings in my life. Becoming a parent to my son through adoption has been an experience full of love, growth, and joy. Watching him grow and thrive each day is a constant reminder of how special this path to parenthood truly is. Because of this journey with him, I know how powerful, supportive, and open-hearted an adoptive family can be. I'm committed to providing the same unconditional love, stability, and opportunities for your child that I give to my son.

I believe in keeping communication open and respectful and would be happy to discuss the type of connection you envision in the future as I want this to be a decision that feels right for you. My family and I are dedicated to creating a home filled with warmth, laughter, and endless encouragement. We understand that adoption is a lifelong connection and would be honored to include you in our family's story in a way that feels best for everyone involved.

Thank you again for considering me. I am here to answer any questions or discuss anything that would help you feel confident in this choice.
