

What My Friends & Family Love About Me

Hello, my name is Angela, and I am the CEO/business owner of my company. I work 90% from home, giving me lots of free time to do what I love most, which is spending time with my daughter—traveling, going on adventures big and small, and taking her to the beach and to the beautiful mountains. I am all about teaching and showing her how we can positively impact other people's lives. I'm known for being thoughtful, open-minded, and having a caring heart. I make care packages and go out with my daughter to deliver them to the homeless, as well as visit nursing homes to give the elderly something that will bring a smile to their faces.

My Home & Neighborhood

I live with my amazing daughter and our sweet Yorkie, Precious, in a warm, welcoming home surrounded by family and friends. Precious is full of personality—she loves kids, gives lots of kisses, and never misses her daily Starbucks pup cup! She even joins us on beach and mountain vacations.

Our neighborhood is incredibly family-friendly, with kind neighbors who all know each other. Our home sits on a semi-corner lot with three bedrooms, a great backyard, and an above-ground pool.

We're just 20 minutes from the zoo and children's museums, and only a short drive to the theme parks. Our local schools—elementary through high school—have earned an "Excellent" rating for three straight years on the South Carolina School Report Card.

my favorite adventures

Helping others has always been at the heart of who I am. One of my favorite experiences was traveling to a small town in Mexico that had been devastated by heavy rains. I went with a mission—to bring the community together, rebuild homes, and restore hope.

What made it even more special was seeing my daughter's eyes light up as she handed out toys and played with the local children. That moment filled my heart with joy.

I believe the best adventures are still ahead—ones where I can share the world with a child, guided by their unique interests and dreams. I look forward to creating meaningful memories, showing them the beauty of giving back, and exploring life's journey together.

My Family & Friends

I have an enormous family consisting of my mom, step-mom, dad, 2 sisters, 5 brothers, cousins, nieces, and nephews galore, many of whom are in the armed forces, and many extended family members. My mom (and best friend) is a retired school cafeteria aide who loves baking and cooking delicious dishes, and if you need her for anything, you can always find her in the kitchen. I also have many family members who are Hispanic and live in Mexico, including my grandma.

My family, near and far, is extremely supportive and looks forward to welcoming you and your new little one into our family to create everlasting memories and cherish traditions, giggling and laughing along the way. I also have friends that I have grown up with, and we are all just one big family.

Dear Expectant Mother,

Thank you so much for taking the time to read my profile and get to know me. While I can't fully understand all the emotions you're experiencing, I hope learning more about me brings even a small sense of strength and support as you consider your next steps.

I want you to know how deeply I respect you. Whatever you need during this time—whether it's reassurance, space, or support—I am here for you. Thank you for considering me as a potential parent for your precious baby. That alone means the world to me.

If you choose me, your child will grow up in a home filled with love, laughter, encouragement, and opportunity. Education will be a priority, as will exploration—traveling, learning about other cultures, and discovering the world around them.

Most importantly, your baby will always know how loved they are—by me and by you. I will tell them what a brave, loving mother you are, and how your choice gave them a beautiful life.

This is not an easy time, and I admire your strength more than words can express. If I'm lucky enough to become part of your story, I will be forever grateful and will honor your journey every step of the way.

My extended family is thrilled at the idea of welcoming a child into our lives—and we would be honored to welcome you, too.

Love, Angela
